

Senior Technical Solutions Consultant

Broadlight Global are seeking a Senior Consultant to join our growing Professional Services Team.

The Challenge

As a group of specialist practitioners, we formed Broadlight Global, united by our experience of transformative approaches to People, Process and Technology.

We work at the intersection of strategy, change and digital delivery to enable organisations to perform optimally, delivering results at a far greater pace and reduced cost.

We live and breathe innovation, collaborating with all manner of organisations, from disruptive start-ups to FTSE 100 enterprises and the UK Government. The breadth of our experience and matured capabilities are combined, across our practices: Build, Scale and Evolve.

Due to expansion of our client base and an increasing focus on cloud technology, scaling challenges and embedding the best ways of working, we require a hands-on consultant who can help shape our customer journey from inception to delivery.

About You

“You will need to have a passion for technical excellence. A deep understanding of cloud platforms such as Amazon Web Services and Microsoft Azure.

In addition to being technically savvy, this role is client-facing, and you will need to be able to listen, understand and articulate solutions at a board level.”

Rob Hesketh | CTO and Founder

It is people, above all else, that ultimately achieve successful outcomes. Organisations can have all of the best technology and operational frameworks, but without the right team motivated to work in an inclusive environment, the potential for high standards of performance is compromised.

Successful partnerships also come from honest and transparent collaborations with a shared mission. At Broadlight Global we call these our OneTeam principles.

Alignment of shared values is the starting point for successful integration of teams and disciplines. As a trusted and dependable extension of your team, your goals become our priority and you can always rely on us.
